

Contents

Czech and Polish Time of Women

Dorota Siwor Czech and Polish Time of Women – Opening Remarks	473
Bernadetta Darska Mapping of Women’s Prose – on Meetings Transcending Boundaries and (Non-)Divergent Paths. A Few Reflexions on the Oeuvre of Polish and Czech Female Authors	476
Anna Car Detabooisation, Provocation and Controversiality in the Works of the Modern Czech Female Prose Writers	488
Magdalena Brodacka-Dwojak What Is the World Taken Ill with? On the Newest Novels of Radka Denemarková and Olga Tokarczuk	505
Anna Maślanka An Oppressive Micro-World. The Picture of Family Relations in the Novels of Petra Soukupová and Zoška Papužanka	523
Renata Buchtová The Mine Workers’ Widows Speak with a Strong Voice. The Literary Pictures of Women’s Fate in Zagłębie Ostrawsko-Karwińskie	540
“I am like a dog, which follows a blood trail...” On Women and Literature in Dorota Siwor’s Interview with Petra Hůlová	559

Reviews

Anna Car Not Only Hašek and Švejk? (Joanna Goszczyńska, Jaromír Kubíček, Tomáš Kubíček, Česká literatura v polských překladech 1989–2020 / Czech Literature in Polish Translations 1989–2020, transl. K. Słowiková, Moravská Zemská Knihovna, Brno 2020, pp. 231)	566
---	-----

Literature and Its Neighbourhoods

Ewa Kołodziejczyk Lyrical Astronomy of Leopold Staff	570
Jadwiga Piskorska Expressing the Corporal Exhaustion: Experiences of Corporality in Knut Hamsun’s Hunger	583
Dorota Siwor Fire and Peace. Jerzy Kronhold 1946–2022	596