

Autorzy / Authors

Justyna Budzik occupies the position of assistant professor at the Institute of American Studies and Polish Diaspora at the Jagiellonian University. She holds a Ph.D. in literature from the Jagiellonian University (2011), M.A. in culture studies, American specialization (Jagiellonian University, 2003) and B.A. in English Studies (Jagiellonian University, 2001). Justyna Budzik is the author of one monograph Feeling at Home versus the Feeling of Alienation. A Study of the Situation of Polish Writers in Canada and of a number of articles related to her main field of interest – the 20th century Polish émigré literature and art created in North America and also in Europe. She has published her papers and articles among others in “Ad Americam”, “Konteksty Kultury”, “Akcent” and “Fraza”.

Katiuscia Carnà – PhD in Educational and Social Research in the Department of Education Sciences at Roma Tre University of Rome. She graduated and specialized in Oriental Languages and Civilizations at La Sapienza University of Rome. She has a Master’s Degree in “Sociology, theory and research” at Roma Tre University of Rome and another Master in “Religions and cultural mediation” at La Sapienza of Rome. Now she is a Researcher Fellow, in the Department of Educational Sciences, at Roma Tre University of Rome. Since 2016, she has been the head of Educational Sector for an NGO, AMU – Onlus. She is co-author of “Roma. Guida alla riscoperta del sacro” (Edup, 2015); “Kotha. Donne bangladesi della Roma che cambia” (Ediesse, 2018), “Nuove identità di una società multietnica. Percorsi tra scuole, religiosi, famiglie” (Cleup, 2020).

Tomasz Ferenc, works as an academic teacher and researcher at the University of Łódź (Department of Sociology, Chair Sociology of Art and Education). His scientific interests focus on biographically oriented sociology of art, the migration study (mostly émigré artists) and visual sociology and anthropology. Occasionally he works as a curator of photo exhibitions and takes part in photo projects. Recently, with co-author, Marek Domański, he has published a book called Borderlands. Tensions of the External Borders on the European Union (2019).

Anna Fiń – Sociologist, Researcher, Assistant Professor at the Department of Sociology of Culture Pedagogical University in Krakow, Poland. She specializes in the sociology of migration, urban sociology and the research of sector of culture and arts. The author of numerous works in the field of sociology of migration and culture. In her scientific work, she mainly deals with the problems of: contemporary transatlantic migration, emigration from Poland and Europe to the USA; relations between immigrant groups, processes of creating and transforming immigrant districts as well as, recently migration photography: its development and significance for studying migration processes.

Milena Gammaitoni – Associate Professor in Sociology at the Faculty of Educational Sciences, Roma Tre University in Rome. She was a post-doctoral researcher at Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales in Paris and visiting professor in various academies both in Italy and abroad (in Cracow, Paris, Tunis). She specializes in qualitative methodologies, sociology of arts and feminist theory. Author of three monographs (L'agire sociale del poeta, W. Szyborska nella vita dei lettori in Polonia e in Italia, Franco Angeli, 2005; La funzione sociale del musicista EDUP, 2004; Storie di vita di artiste europee, dal medioevo alla contemporaneità, CLEUP, 2013); editor of collective works dedicated to sociology of arts, arts and politics, female musicians; co-author of over 50 academic articles and essays.

Karolina Golemo – sociologist of culture; Assistant Professor at the Institute of Intercultural Studies, Jagiellonian University in Krakow. Research interests: cultural diversity of Italy and Iberian Peninsula, cross-cultural identities and integration of immigrants' descendants, migrants and artistic expression, music in intercultural relations. Principal Investigator in HERA-funded project "European Music Festivals, Public Spaces and Cultural Diversity".

Agnieszka Małek is a sociologist and Assistant Professor at the Institute of American Studies and Polish Diaspora of the Jagiellonian University, Krakow, Poland. Her research and teaching interests include female migration, migration policy and diaspora studies. She is a member of the Committee on Migration Research of Polish Academy of Science.

Ksenia O. Prosyukova – PhD, Ed.D, Associate Professor at the Institute of International Relations of Kazan Federal University; author of more than 30 publications devoted to the transformations of the system of education in Syria; the impact of the political crisis on the system of education in Syria; adaptation and integration of Syrian refugees into the new educational environment (the EU case-study).

Elżbieta Wiącek – Ph.D., Institute of Intercultural Studies, Faculty of International and Political Studies, Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland. The research scope of her publications encompasses cultural semiotic, history of art, history of cinema (especially Iranian cinema), film analysis, visual anthropology, postmodernism. In 2014 she took part in teaching fellowship program at University of Rochester NY, USA. She took part in the project "Semiotic Map of Malopolska region" (2013–2015, awarded by the Malopolska Voivodeship Office). Her main publications (books) include: Less Attended Ways to Paradise: on Jim Jarmusch's films (2001), Film Journeys of Abbas Kiarostami (2004), Symbols of Contemporary Culture (2015, editor and co-author).