

Kinship and Urbanisation in Inner Asia

Spis treści

Ivan Peshkov, Zbigniew Szmyt, Introduction: Kinship and Urbanization in Inner Asia	VII
Tomasz Rakowski, “Urbanisation of the Steppe”. Sedentarization, Mobility, and Collective Business-Making Among the Torghuts in Post-transitional Mongolia	1
Kamil M. Wielecki, The Steppe that Ceases to Be Itself: Migration and Attachment to Homeland Among the Nogais in Dagestan, North Caucasus	21
Katarzyna Golik, The Sedentarization and Gentrification in Post-Nomadic Districts	37
Aleksandra Turowska, Reinventing Urban Identities in Kazan	63
Rebecca M. Empson, Elizabeth Fox, Asset or Burden: The Ethical Calculus of Care in Ulaanbaatar’s Urban Margins	85
Konstantin V. Grigorichev, From Stable “Temporality” to Permanent Variability: The Role of Reciprocity in the Formation of Communities in the “Private Housing Sector” of Russian Cities	103
Albert Jawłowski, What Is Visible and What Is Hidden. Cultural Landscape of Kizhinga Town: Between Local Native Traditions and State Ideology	117
Alexey V. Mikhalev, Three Shades of Red: Power of Symbols or Soviet Legacy in Contemporary Inner Asian Capitals	133
Zbigniew Szmyt, Huns on the Ruins of Socialism: Public Past in Inner Asian Cities	145
Wojciech Cendrowski, The Patterns of the Nomad in Buryat Urban Culture	169
Biograms	