

Notes on the contributors

Wojciech LIGEZA is a literary historian, critic, essayist, associate professor, and the head of the Department of the History of Twentieth Century Polish Literature at the Faculty of Polish Studies at the Jagiellonian University. His books include: Jerozolima i Babilon. Miasta poetów emigracyjnych ("Jerusalem and Babylon: The Cities of Émigré Poets," 1998); Jaśniejsze strony katastrofy. Szkice o twórczości poetów emigracyjnych ("The Brighter Sides of a Catastrophe: Sketches on the Works of Émigré Poets," 2001); O poezji Wisławy Szymborskiej. Świat w stanie korekty ("The Poetry of Wisława Szymborska: The World in a State of Correction," 2002); and Bez rutyny. O poezji Wisławy Szymborskiej i Zbigniewa Herberta ("Without Routine: The Poetry of Wisława Szymborska and Zbigniew Herbert," 2016). He is the co-author and editor of numerous collective volumes, including: Pamięć głosów. Studia nad twórczością Aleksandra Wata ("The Memory of Voices: Studies on the Works of Aleksander Wat," 1992); Ktokolwiek jesteś bez ojczyzny. Topika polskiej współczesnej poezji emigracyjnej ("Whoever You Are without a Homeland: A Repertoire of the Topoi of Contemporary Polish Émigré Poetry," 1995); Powroty w zapomnienie. Dekada literatury emigracyjnej 1989–1999 ("Returns to Oblivion: A Decade of Émigré Literature 1989–1999," 2001); and Portret z początku wieku. Twórczość Zbigniewa Herberta – kontynuacje i rewizje ("A Portrait from the Beginning of the Century: The Works of Zbigniew Herbert – Continuations and Revisions," 2005).

Joanna RZEPA is Lecturer in Literature in the Department of Literature, Film, and Theatre Studies at the University of Essex. Before joining Essex, she taught at Trinity College Dublin, University College London and the University of Warwick. Her research and teaching interests include twentieth-century literature, literary translation, Holocaust writing, and modernism. She is currently completing her monograph Modernist Poetry and Theology: Rilke, Eliot and Miłosz, which will appear with Palgrave Macmillan.

Dorota SIWOR is an adjunct professor at the Department of the History of Twentieth Century Polish Literature at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków and the secretary of the editorial staff of Konteksty Kultury. She deals with mythologization in contemporary literature as well as the most recent fiction. She is the author of the book W kręgu mitu, magii i rytuału. O prozie Tadeusza Nowaka ("In the Sphere of Myth, Magic, and Ritual: On Tadeusz Nowak's Prose," 2002) as well as sketches published in collective volumes. Siwor has edited and co-edited collections of essays, including:

Literatura polska po przełomie 1989 roku (“Polish Literature after the Watershed of 1989,” 2007); Trans-fuzje. Spotkania polskiej i czeskiej kultury w XX i XXI wieku (“Trans-Fusions: The Encounters of Polish and Czech Literature in the Twentieth and Twenty-First Centuries,” 2016); Liryka i fenomenologia. Zbigniew Herbert i Tadeusz Różewicz w kręgu myśli Ingardenowskiej (“Lyric Poetry and Phenomenology: Zbigniew Herbert and Tadeusz Różewicz in the Sphere of Ingardenian Thought,” 2016); Zemsta ręki śmiertelnej. Interpretacje wierszy poetów XX wieku (“Revenge of the Mortal Hand: Interpretations of Twentieth Century Poets,” 2017); and Świat piękny i bardzo różny. Szkice o wozach Pana Cogito (“A Beautiful and Very Different World: Sketches on the Voyages of Mr. Cogito,” 2018). Her writing has appeared in Ruch Literacki, Dekada Literacka, Świat i Słowo, and Konteksty Kultury.

Nina TAYLOR-TERLECKA is a translator, literary historian and critic. She teaches Polish literature at the University of Oxford. Her main area of research is the literary landscape of the Grand Duchy of Lithuania, Polish Romantic drama, and Polish émigré literature. Her publications include an anthology of Polish Gulag poetry: Gulag polskich poetów. Od Komi do Kołymy. Wiersze (“From Komi to Kolyma: the Gulag of the Polish Poets – Poems,” 2001) and many books which aim at rediscovering Tymon Terlecki’s legacy, such as T. Terlecki, Emigracja naszego czasu (“The Emigration of Our Time,” 2003) J. Wittlin and T. Terlecki, Listy 1944–1976 (“Letters, 1946–1976,” 2014). She has translated, among others, Jarosław Marek Rymkiewicz, Marek Nowakowski, and Janusz Anderman.

Łukasz TISCHNER is an associate professor at the Department of the History of Twentieth Century Polish Literature at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. His research interests are: Czesław Miłosz; Witold Gombrowicz; and atheism and theism as well as their representation in twentieth century Polish literature. He has published two books on Miłosz, Miłosz w krainie odczarowanej (“Miłosz in a Disenchanted Land,” 2011) and Miłosz and the Problem of Evil (published in English by Northwestern University Press in 2015), as well as one on Gombrowicz, Gombrowicza milczenie o Bogu (“Gombrowicz’s Silence on God,” 2013). Currently, he is involved in the project: “Literature and Religion: The Challenges of a Secular Age” (National Programme for the Development of Humanities, supported by a grant from the Polish Ministry of Science and Higher Education).

Elżbieta WITTLIN-LIPTON is the daughter of Józef Wittlin and his wife Halina. In 1940, she managed to leave Nazi-occupied Poland, escaping through Berlin, Brussels, France, and Spain to Lisbon, eventually disembarking in New York in early 1941. She was educated in the United States, where she studied art, interior design, and, later, experimental theater. Along with her husband Michel and son James, she has spent more than thirteen years living in Spain. There, she has studied Spanish poetry and the history of Spanish art and architecture. Elżbieta Wittlin-Lipton presently resides in Madrid and makes regular visits to her native Poland and New York. She works as an interior designer, alternating between scenic and costume design for plays by such authors as Calderón de la Barca and Witold Gombrowicz. She has published a memoir, From One Day to Another: A Fashion Reportage in a Period of Conflict (2011).

Wojciech S. WOŃLAW is a master of ceremonies and writer who graduated with honors from the Faculty of Polish Studies at the Jagiellonian University. He has published Pamiętnik (...) wsi ("The Diary of (...) a Village," 2008) and a work of literary reportage, Bezdomni ("The Homeless," 2010). He was the founder and co-organizer of "The Wittlin Conference" (Kraków, 14–15 April 2011) and co-editor of: Etapy Józefa Wittlina ("The Various Stages of Józef Wittlin," 2014).